

China Energy News

- China's most authoritative newspapers in the energy industry

"China Energy News" is the official newspaper of the National Energy Commission and the National Energy Board. "China Energy News" is China's most authoritative media in the energy industry, and it was also China's first energy newspaper for the whole industry chain. "China Energy News" is the information publishing platform that serves China's national energy strategy, energy policy and their macro-management.

"China Energy News" provides the latest trends in the energy industry for energy industry production and operation. It supplies the information basis for business activities and operation decisions for leaders and practitioners in the energy industry leaders.

- Authoritative: "China Energy News" is published by the People's Daily, China's most influential and authoritative newspaper publisher. It provides the latest information and the most authoritative analysis.
- Professional: More than 30 professional invited journalists contribute to the newspaper's news, reviews and analysis, providing the most unique perspective and the most professional investigation.

Main Features:

- Fully Internet version – no plug-ins, no need to install, manage a server;
- Content 100% full-text searchable in English and simplified or traditional Chinese -- Either in single or combined search;
- Search results could be display in English and Chinese;
- From the first issue published to present;
- Updated weekly – Able to read and search today's issues